Harvers of Shorthand.

The conference of shorthand writers in connection with the celebration of the diamond jubilee of Pitman's system discussed some unusual applications of shorthand. One fervid gentleman en larged on the advantages of the "swift art" as a help to courtship. How much gushing affection, the speaker asked, evaporates in the process of writing love letters in long hand? The shorthand writing swain, penning his tender epis tles to the phonographic maiden, is free from this difficulty. His intensest feel ings he can express in fluent strokes and curves the moment they stir within him. This suggestion brought up an other speaker, who favored his hearers with a little reminiscence. In remote days he had desired to put to a certain young lady a certain question to which he felt difficulty in giving utterance. A happy thought struck him he would put the question on paper in the symbols of shorthand. This would be mysterious to the lady; she would ask him to read the question, and his difficulties would at once disappear. Man proposes but things do not always work out as he desires. The young lady exhibited no curiosity, but quietly pocketed the shorthand. At the next interview with her lover she calmly told him that she had unraveled his message and was prepared to give an affirmative reply. The wily maiden had sent the shorthand proposal to Sir Isaac Pitman, who had supplied her with the translation

Childed Mr. Rockefeller.

A newly engaged clerk in the employ of the Standard Oil company was sent to work in a room that contained a health lift. Every morning at about 10 o'clock, when this clerk was particularly busy with figures, a small, black A ranch with 636 acres, mostly enclosed, mustached man, quiet and diffident in navner, entered, said "Good morning," walked on tiploe to the corner and exereised for a quarter of an hour. It became a bore to the clerk, who at last one day remarked with considerable heat to the stranger: "How do you expect me to do my work properly while you are fooling with that blasted machine? I'm getting tired of it. Why don't you put it where it won't worry a person to death?"

"I am very sorry it annoys you," said the stranger, flushing. "I will have it removed at once." A porter took it away within an hour. A few days later the clerk was sent for by Mr. Flagler, whom he found in enrnest conversation with the small, black mustached man. The latter smiled at sacing him, gave Flagier some instructions and left the room. "Will you tell me who that gentle-

AN OLD REPUBLICAN'S VIEWS.

Senator Teller of Colorado, whom the Republicans talked of for President before the party sold out to the gold trust, and whom they now detest as the devil does good deeds, says there will be no currency legislation passed by the Senate at this session, and he predicts that the forcing of Secretary Gage's financial scheme will result in a split between the President and the bimetallic Republican Senators.

Senator Teller declares that in 1900 the money question will be the only issue discussed. By that time the farce of international bimetallism, so far as it means bimatallism with the co-operation of Great Britain, will be there?" played out. Mr. Bryan will be the logical candidate for President on which all the silver forces will unite:

ing an impossible feat, that is riding pretty sure the oriminal is not. "- Washtwo horses going in opposite directions. He cannot favor Secretary Gage's scheme to more firmly establish the gold standard and Senator Wolcott's scheme for international bimetallism at the same time. He must break with one or the other and that means a schism in the party and an itrepressible conflict between the gold and that, compared with his European standard and bimetaltic Republicans.

THE STATE TREASURY.

All the counties in the State have settled with the State Treasurer for the year 1897. The total revenue of the State does not differ materially from that of 1896, though the exact figures are not attainable, the Controller's and Treasurer's reports for 1897 not being hand and remarked: yet complete. He has abundance of money, however, and his agents hope to be able to purchase the required number before the election takes place. GENERAL WEYLER now defies his own Government to commence proceedings against him. Beethoven was born in a small house in Bonn. His father had inherited the vice of drinking, and often Beethoven and his younger brother were obliged to take their intoxicated father home. He was never known to utter an unkind word about the man who had made his youth so unhappy, and he never failed to resent it when a third person spoke uncharitably of his father's frailty.

Young Beethoven was thus taught many a severe lesson in the hard school of adversity. But his trials were not without advantage to him. They gave to his character that iron fexture which upheld him under his heaviest burdens.

Report and Honor Rolls for the Month of October, 1897. To the Board of School Trustees-GENTLEMEN: I herewith respectfully submit my report for the public schools of Rene for the school month ending

We are endeavoring to arrange w just and practical plan for the midyear promotions, the last week of January next. The purpose is so to reclassify pupils that they may work to hetter advantage the rest of the year. Where this is done but once a year, vantage, some having too little to do. others too much.

The true remedy would be a telassification in groups monthly or oftener, the pupils being allowed to progress in their studies in exact accordance with their individual ability. This year we are taking one step in Another year we may be able to do much more.
